HAVE YOU CONSIDERED NURSING?

CONSIDER THIS

- Your emergency medicine skills give you a "leg up" to learn the extensive and complex knowledge and skills of nursing;

- Your EMT work can help to support you through nursing school;

- Having worked in emergency medicine, you have a realistic view of the health care industry, an advantage as you consider a continuing career in health care;
- Nurses are in great demand today and projections indicate nurses will continue to be in high demand;
- Nursing salaries are competitive;

- Nurses can find satisfying jobs anywhere in the world;
- Nurses can work in all areas of health care, plus industry and schools;
- Nurses' work in emergency medicine settings is as satisfying as EMT work plus nurses have broader functions in emergencies;
- Nurses enjoy increasing autonomy in their work;
- Nurses are one of the most highly respected professions in health care.

YOUR EMPLOYER CAN HELP

Your employer can help you to become a nurse in the following ways:

- ◆ Flexible work scheduling;
- ◆ Providing a mentor or tutor;
- ◆ Scholarship or forgivable loan;
- ◆ Other financial assistance;
- ◆ Housing or transportation help.

THINK NURSING!!
